ALL ABOUT WILLOW COURT

Willow Court is a new nursing home in Andover, which is the largest of the three towns in the beautiful Test Valley.

The nursing home was completed in 2005, and is very near the Andover Memorial Hospital. It has an attractively landscaped garden, with a patio area and plenty of seating.

People in wheelchairs can get to and from all the living and areas in the home, and there are specifically adapted bathrooms for people who have restricted mobility. There is a lift to the upper floor.

Willow Court...

- provides care for older people with general nursing needs
- provides care for older people with dementia and/or who are physically frail
- has 66 en suite single rooms
- provides telephone, television and internet points in all bedrooms
- has a room where residents can smoke, but all other rooms, including the bedrooms, are non-smoking
- is organised into small, friendly units of ten bedrooms, which share a lounge and dining area of their own.

FINDING US

To reach us from the A303...

take the exit signed to Andover town centre.

Follow the signs for the town centre, and when you reach Folly Roundabout, take the turning off left which is signed to the hospital and the station.

Follow the road round, passing the station to your left. Go under the bridge and take the right hand turn into the hospital grounds.

The road to Willow Court is to the right of the hospital. Parking is in the designated bays opposite the nursing home.

The nearest train station is Andover, which is within a mile of Willow Court.
